

Cost of Attendance

The Cost of Attendance (or COA) is estimated from various components determined by federal regulations, and include both direct costs (like tuition and housing) and indirect costs (like transportation). The COA charts available below provide estimated expenses for a full time student based on program. These amounts are useful in calculating the overall costs you are likely to incur when enrolling with the College, and are used in awarding financial aid funds. As these are estimates, please note that if you enroll less than full time, the amounts will be reduced.

Please Note: Full time enrollment is considered 12 credits for undergraduate programs and nine (9) credits for graduate programs.
