What is LIRN?

LIRN (Library and Information Resource Network) is your gateway to thousands of academic resources, including eBooks, scholarly articles, research databases, and multimedia all available online 24/7.

How to find information on LIRN :

- Once you have signed in, select "Jump to a Specific Group" and select a group, such as Health & Medical.
- Select an appropriate database for your topic, such as Nursing & Allied Health Database for nursing topics.
- You will have the option of doing a Basic Search, Advanced Search, browse publications, or search by title.
- If you want to do an Advanced Search, enter your topic (for example, "diabetes and heart disease"), then use the dropdown menus to narrow your search by document title, publication.
- You can also filter the results by publication date (e.g., "last 3 years") to find more recent articles.
- After filtering the results, you will find journals and articles for your topic.
